

Val Davis, The Call

Hey girl, whats going on?
I hope that you don't mind me calling on the phone.
It's been awhile now, I'm doing fine.
But sometimes it's hard to get you off my mind

And through all the days and miles we've been apart,
I still respect your need to make a clean new start.
I guess what it is that I'm really trying to say
Is that these feelings that I have for you will never go away.

You're in my mind, you fill my heart
Like raindrops on a lake or a candle in the dark
I will not die, I have moved on
What I guess I'm trying to say is that this love I have for you goes on and on.

I think that's all now, I'd better end.
I've got 400 miles to drive so I can sing my songs again.
And when I'm singing, I'll think of you.
Those thoughts help me to be myself and that's when my music fills the room.

And though it's true we'll no longer be a pair,
I'll still think of you and all the magic times we shared.
And I'm not sorry, for the way we've been
You taught me how to love and now I'll love you as my friend.

You're in my mind, you fill my heart
Like raindrops on a lake or a candle in the dark
I will not die, I have moved on
What I guess I'm trying to say is that this love I have for you goes on and on.