

Van Canto, Startlight

I feel a heat inside
the past begun to thaw.
My mind describes the picture
that I want to draw.
What I have waited for it seems to be so near.
And every step closer
is damping the fear.
All I am lies right in front of me.
Where did I go wrong?
That it took so many nights to be
Where I belong?
Starlight
Please enlighten me.
I feel so immortal.
Starlight
Raised to let me see what was,
What is and what will be.
This one goes out to the preachers of the light
That never broke their promise:
"You will get there, if you still care."
This one goes out to the darkness of the night
Planning my atlantis.
I did not drown. No, I got there!
All I am lies right in front of me.
Where did I go wrong?
That it took so many nights to be
Where I belong?
I'm back again.
Starlight
Please enlighten me.
I feel so immortal.
Starlight
Raised to let me see what was,
What is and what will be.
Starlight
Please enlighten me.
I feel so immortal.
Starlight
Raised to let me see what was,
What is and what will be.
[Solo]
All I am lies right in front of me.
I'm back where I belong.
And the truth it lies beyond
these gates of dawn.
Starlight
Please enlighten me.
I feel so immortal.
Starlight
Raised to let me see what was,
What is and what will be.
Starlight
Please enlighten me.
I feel so immortal.
Starlight
Raised to let me see what was,
What is and what will be.
