

Vanilla Sky, Wait For The Sun

Another day's gone. So many have died.
I still cannot find the reason why.
We're standing their crimes, we're standing their lies pretending not to see what they hide.

But I won't give up
No! I won't fight for their cause,
be what they want, trust in their thoughts.
No! Not this time, not with my mind.
I will not betray myself.

Wake up everyday to walk your own way
You can't see your close friends fade away.
When your turn will come, you will die and burn:
the world's made of people just like you.

But I won't give up
No! I won't fight for their cause,
be what they want, trust in their thoughts.
No! I won't take what they give,
believe what they say, in wars that they made.
No! Not this time, not with my mind.

They lied! They're still lying in everything they say.
Don't let them the chance to catch you:
just choose your way!
Keep strong! Don't let it go!
Believe in what you love.
Remember they don't know
what you've got inside.

Now I do wait for the sun
to hit my head instead of their guns.
Just have a dream before jumping in.