Vanished, The Anatomy Of Desperation

Desperately trying to find my way And hopelessly grabbing for the words to say And I can't see, I'm searching for the remedy And I want to be the way I dreampt it to be And it feels like you're a million miles away Will I heal when you're so far from me

I'm desperately seeking I'm dangerously hoping the walls will come down 'cause I don't want to go home right now

Choking me with these words I say Apologies: there's not enough to say or express And I confess that you're everything to me, to me And I'll be what you want me to be I can't see past the broken part of me

(chorus)

Suffocate the things I hate with the remedy inside of me again. I suffocate the things I hate with your remedy inside of me again again

(chorus)
