Vert, Die At The Wheel

liquid dripping morals slipping did you ever know that the dark could hold your brightest day well guess what yeah so hold me tight so love me true lived my life to this point to be killed by you all you can say's you never knew well I had an idea about this just don't ask me to explain it I couldn't say love kills day we've gone astray hold me to the right path hold her too we can't make it without you no brain's died it's too damn hard can't remember which is our car gonna die at the wheel, can't see or feel