

Vic Chesnutt, See You Around

I'm sorry for my lack of communication but as I'm staring out this fifth floor window it seems like the least amount of communication the better oh, well what am I supposed to say "there's a bloody effigy on my wall and the complimentary carnation is falling apart" and I ain't got time for the niceties or rather I was never, never fond of the niceties

I will see you around
see you around

well I must admit I'm flattered by your consecration It's a mind-numbing spine-chilling but never-the-less heartwarming gesture but as you make your advances so clumsily I'll save us both the both the hassle and leave and hang out all night in the familiar fluorescent light of Dunkin' Donuts 'cause I ain't got time for the niceties or rather I was never, never fond of the niceties

see you around

well, how are you with issues lately you've been a half-assed activist you've been seen sashaying around the picket line wearing scarcely any sign oh, but always vocal in love and strife and the politics of your all important life well, I'm sorry but your routine is coming off a bit ragged and I ain't got time for the niceties
or rather I was never, never fond of the niceties

I will see you around
I'll see you around
see you around ...

I'll see you around ...
