

Vic Chesnutt, Threads

your personal pariah is in a wool cap the mirror flakes away take a long nap

watching the threads disintegrate like the Krishna beads in a lockbox safe
watching the threads disintegrate
like the Krishna beads in a lockbox safe
watching the threads disintegrate crumbling like the lawn art you made oh, lawn art you made
I was crumbling like the lawn art that you made hard brown bread cut with a circular saw shallow rattling breath with a wee cough

watching the threads disintegrate
foisted into the middle ages
watching the threads disintegrate
remain in the ruckus and you will get scraped oh, you will get scraped
if you remain in the ruckus and you will get scraped
