

Victims Family, Luv Letters

"I've told you so many times that I'm running out of breath because I'm only talking till I'm blue in the face and not a moment less because I only love the sound of my voice I know you're all impressed." But in reality the fact is listening to you just makes me more depressed.

Here we go again, I hear the nails on the blackboard start. But when it really comes down to it I'd rather listen to you fart. Talking only about yourself makes you feel whole lot better. Why not just pick up a pen and write yourself a love letter?

"Hi! How've I been? Well, the wearher's fine and I'm having wonderful time and I wish I was here."

Signed.
