

Wakefield, Reasons

Now the year is almost over nothing left to keep me sober suck it up where am I going now schools out the rumors ending no more time for me pretending that the girl I want is here right now im on my own,
give me a reason
that i should care anymore
that i should care anymore
give me a reason
dont look now cause its a long way down in to deep now im bailing the waters way above my head all the books and dirty lockers thoughts of you staying after school with the girl thats leaving me behind
give me a reason that I should care anymore
hold on to what you do when you find your own.
dont look now cause its a long way down.
its over maybe forever
time is running out my days are spent the clocks ticking now
everyone is clean and sober suck it up im in the real world now
hold on to what you do
