

Waltari, The Beginning Song

Island in the city, music in the air Waiting for the feeling, and surprise: it's right there!

I dressed up in a cloth of lion I wanted to avoid growing thin, so That I couldn't blame myself not running faster

I took my courage, I felt so hungry And hunger is a greed that makes you achieve Something more than you are in now

CHORUS 1:
I want my life, you'd better beware of my mind
But you are here and this is a hungry lion dance
I wanna hit and run and you'd better beware of my kind 'coz you're bit green and I know well what I've come here to take

I saw a big field
I saw the moonshine
I saw the black figures in horizon
Don't you be afraid of me babe I'm faster than your fright

You shiny angel, wearing crystals You will recognize the rebel without a pause Still I'll wait, on the final scene before the edge

CHORUS 2:
I want your love, you'd better beware of my life
'coz you are near and this is a
hungry lion dance
I wanna hit and run without an easy way I'm hungry for you love and I really don't like to pass you

Island in the city, music in the air
Waiting for the feeling, and
surprise: it's right there!

CHORUS 3:
I want your love you'd better
beware of my mind
'coz you're so green and I know well where I'm aiming to I wanna split and run without an easy way
But still you are here and I really don't like to slip you through
