Wanda Jackson, Lost Weekend

LOST WEEKEND (Wayne P. Walker) '60 Cedarwood Publishing

Every day is a lost weekend Every day since my baby said goodbye Every day is a lost weekend I feel just like crawling off somewhere to die Just like a clown, I played around Too many times I was untrue I still remember, your parting words were If you need me, I'll call you Every day is a lost weekend Every day since my baby said goodbye Just like a clown, I played around Too many times I was untrue I still remember, your parting words were If you need me, I'll call you Every day is a lost weekend Every day since my baby said goodbye Well, I'm choking, choking on heartaches I feel just like crawling off somewhere to die I feel just like crawling off somewhere to die