

Wanda Jackson, What Have We Done

What have I done to you what can you against me

We let one little word lead to another

It got all out of hand I just can't understand why we couldn't talk to each other

What have we done now that it's all over neither of us won so what have we done
(steel)

Our two lives are as take we've made a big mistake we don't even know how it started

One of us must give in don't let our love just end

We can't go through life broken hearted

So what have we done now that it's all over neither of us won so what have we done

Neither of us won so what have we done
