

Wanderers, Circles Of Time

(Parsons/Bators)

circles of time roll endlessly on nowhere to go but back from the start fashion begins and change overnight one man's laugh is other man's art ten years back is ten years today we're all spinning in the circles of time tryin' to lead the race that you're in faster you run catch up with yourself have to relive the past you forget don't leave the memories up on the shelf the closer you get the further you are we're all running in the circles of time it's really all the same with another name it's just an endless game no one's to blame circles of time rolls endlessly on tomorrows fools are heroes today idols they tarnish change overnight time will laugh at the things that they say ten years right is ten years wrong
we're all spinning in the circles of time