

War of Words, In Protest

no don't look for me to raise a flag when your cities collapse and no i won't shed a tear for the thousands who don't care about me never thinking twice about the millions dying everywhere 'til one day it comes close to home and everyone pretends to care flying flags of freedom well to me these flags are white but i won't surrender to this pride i won't lean to the right pride in race and nation can't you see it's such a joke cause we're all born into different skin and land that we don't know so don't take pride in where you come from but in who you are and what you do the former's only bullshit based on choices no one ever gave you never thinking twice about the people who die everywhere until you see wreckage and it sends you running running scared tell me what's a number the more it is the more they care so if you die alone alone you're dead well that doesn't seem fair but it's only lives we recognize that history will count because this country couldn't give a fuck for anybody else it doesn't matter if they die on our land or on theirs foreign lives are no statistic when they're outnumbered by ours pride in race and nation can't you see it's such a joke
so your pissing match for power is just pissing in the wind cause the war you're for like every war's the war that no one wins
