

War of Words, Nation 1

welcome to the top of the world where everything is alright because the blinds are drawn tight they protect us from the suffering of people all over they protect us from the knowledge of hate but just on the other side of the window man digs through my waste for the food i discard and just on the other side of the world an arsenal is aimed at my front door but these blinds keep me blind and the choice is mine because ignorance is bliss so i'm feeling just fine here in freedom nation our spirits are high and if you hear otherwise than you're hearing a lie yea we. we are the free we are the free. this world is ours it'll always be the chosen nation god is on our side the people of power the citizens of pride so give thanks for the freedom to take a little more when you're satisfied not full give thanks for the freedom of ruthless competition and a chance for all to rule plenty of opportunity for the opportunistic few it's the weak and the lazy the idealistic who stay banished to class 2 with our world and our freedom in our hands
