

War Tapes, She Lied

Time will tell and so will those little things you keep tucked in your head Cause I wasn't born with enough of an innocence to keep coming back for more

She must of lied to you,
before I had her

All day long I sit and communicate with the dead
corpse that I call my girlfriend And she's only half of the girl that I met See it takes true love to watch her decay

She must of lied to you
before I had her
She must of lied to you before I had the time to sit and think about those little things that creep inside and tear me apart

I'm sorry I never meant to hurt you but I'm going down that road alone and never coming back

All day long I sit and communicate with the dead
corpse that I call my girlfriend

She must of lied to you
before I had her She must of lied to you before I had her heart