

Warren Barfield, Love Is Not A Fight

Love is not a place, to come and go as we please,
is a house we enter in, and than commit to never leave,
so lock the door behind you, throw away the key,
well work it out together, let it bring us to our knees

Coro: Love is a shelter in a raging storm;
Love is a peace in a middle of a war, and if we try to leave may God send angels to guard the door.
No, love is not a fight, but is something worth fighting for.

To some love is a word that they can fall into,
but when theyre falling out, keeping their word is hard to do

Coro: Love is a shelter in a raging storm;
Love is peace in a middle of a war, but if we try to leave may God send angels to guard the door.
No, love is not a fight, but is something worth fighting for.

Ponte: Love will come to save us, if well only call,
he will ask nothing from us, but demand well give our all.

Coro: Love is a shelter in a raging storm;
Love is a peace in a middle of a war, and if we try to leave may God send angels to guard the door.
No, love is not a fight, but is something worth fighting for.
I will fight for you!

Would you fight for me?

Its worth fighting for.
