

Watashi-Wa, Everything

Have you seen the sun go down,
When colors meet and life slows down,
And suddenly everything impels you,

Evenings at the end of fall
When your thoughts don't seem there at all,
Still everything inside seems to grab you,
And could it be that everything is true?
And could it be it's calling you?

Everything that's right,
Everything you know is true,
Everything that's life
Everything is calling you,
Everything will stay that way,
Everything will stay that way.

Have you seen a moonlit sky,
When it echoes off the water's end,
An evening's breeze seems endless like a memory?

And every memory like a ring,
A promise made into a destiny,
The love of life is calling out your name.
And could it be that everything is true?
And could it be it's calling you?

Everything that's right,
Everything you know is true,
Everything that's life everything is calling you,
Everything will stay that way,
Everything will stay that way.
Lead me and teach me.