

Waterdeep, Restoration

written by Don Chaffer on 3/18/99 (from about midnight to 8:00 am)

got to restore
got to restore

Sometimes it's late at night I'm thinkin but I'm not quite there. Everywhere that I turn It's a county fair
This booth, that booth, I'm everything that's uncouth and I can't keep nothing straight except my front tooth

Late night NPR programming'll go far listenin to Kerouac in a French Quarter bar
I was not a beatnik
I didn't do the speed but I could get high on the pages I'd read

CHORUS

Oh, got to restore
Oh, got to restore

I get fascinated by the strangest things and my wife has to deal with my wide mood swings Some nights are mellow
Some nights are okay
But I don't want things to just stay this way
I left the bacon fryin in a pan last night
I heard a baby cryin in the man inside Untended, unmended, my needs are open-ended
But I believe you can heal the way I feel

The river I'm thinking of doesn't have a stink above the water from the waste that's been dumped therein
This river is crystal, not method, not madness
The river is rolling, and the river is life Now I ain't being funny and I ain't being queer I'm gonna say it simple and I'm gonna say it clear
The bridegroom is coming
Are you ready to be a member of his wife?

Now, let me take you to a place farther than outer space Everything is different and you love it that way Every tear is dried up every demon tied up Nothing of the aching is around out here

All the things you hated have all been decimated Even those things inside of you no more being worried and no more being bored

Everything ever lost has been restored restoration
restoration
