

We Are Scientists, Textbook

Falling over backwards for you
Falling over everybody else
I put myself in that position
Everytime I have the chance
I know it's not my business, to be Digging up these things I shouldn't know
Twenty years of bad descisions
Havn't taught me much at all
Seperate events you're making
Everyone pretend it's not your fault
And all of this offence you're taking Doesn't really bother me at all Twist my arm 'cause that's the way you think you're gonna work this whole thing out
You know you own my body but don't think that you control my mouth
(having every question answered
Isn't gonna help at all?) [x3]
(having every question answered
Doesn't help)
When you're not supposed to know
You're not supposed to know
You're not supposed to know
Anything
Another textbook situation
Everything I think I know I've read
What's the point of medication?
All it makes me wish; that I were dead
It's pretty clear that you are me
It's written here on every single page
I'm smitten but not stupid
I can read it all over your face
(having every question answered
Isn't gonna help at all?) [x3]
(having every question answered
Doesn't help)
When you're not supposed to know
You're not supposed to know
You're not supposed to know
Anything
You're not supposed to know
