

Wedding Present, Perfect Blue and when i turn around to glance at you, you're staring your eyes are such a perfect blue that i can't look away did i get shy? maybe i didn't make it clear but i think i'll always want you near 'cause when i'm away from you it's like something's missing that sounds trippy but i swear it's true you just appeared and though it was rehearsed there really was no warning you're the first thing in my head each morning the more i have the more i want you the more you smile the more i know that i'll never make you sad never make you sad

but i should warn you
that i just might never let you out of my sight not sure just what i did to deserve you i'm not complaining, god forbid, i just don't understand why haven't you had enough of me how have i managed to make you love me
the more i have the more i want you
the more you smile the more i know that i'll never make you sad
never make you sad
but i should warn you
that i just might never let you out of my sight