

Weezer, I just threw out the love of my dreams

I'm so tall, can't get over me
I'm so low, can't get under me
I must be all these things, M for I just threw out the love of my dreams
He's in my eyes, he's in my ears
He's in my blood, he is in my tears
I think of, and see him every day
Even though 'morrow he still moved away
Oh he's got me wondering
My rightousness is crumbling
Never before have I felt this way
No one is right, want for him to stay
I must be made of steel
For I just threw out the love of my dreams
He's in my eyes, he's in my ears
He's in my blood, he is in my tears
I think of, and see him every day
Even though 'morrow he still moved away
Oh he's got me wondering
My rightousness is crumbling
Oh he's got me wondering
My rightousness is crumbling
And I see him every day
even though my love's walked away
He's in my eyes, he's in my ears
He's in my blood, he is in my tears
I must be made of steel
For I just threw out the love of my dreams
