

Wild Animal Party, This Town (live)

The full moon won't lie
Because tonight we're gonna die
When the werewolves come into this town.
The people stop and stare.
They can't comprehend the hair.
They won't know what threw them to the ground.
They won't understand in this town.

Put the dogs away
They were useless anyway
And the fences won't keep us protected.
Assemble all your guns
The beasts are having fun.
There won't be one soul neglected.
And the tears will never end in this town.

And the beasts will all bow down.
And the beasts will all bow down.
"Please don't hurt us," they'll say.
"We are leaving this day."

The gnashing of the teeth and every golden wreath
That is falling off the doors in this town.
Blood everywhere, the beasts covered in hair
Won't understand what they've found.
But there's a child left in this town.

Touch them on the arm and see they are no harm
When the power of love is in your hand.
With most of the town gone there still is one song
To help this child become a man.
And the world will soon be saved in this town.

And the beasts will all bow down.
And the beasts will all bow down.
We've been fighting since the fall,
But love conquers all.
