Willie Nelson, The Shelter of Your Arms

Now I lay me down to sleep And if I sleep, perhaps III dream. If I dream, III be with you, In the shelter of your arms. I pray that god will lengthen night, And grant me time before the light. For the light of day will take me From the shelter of your arms.

And though I know its just a dream, A dream that soon must end, The arms I feel, I know are real, And Im happy, once again.

If I die, while I am asleep, I pray my dreams hell let me keep, And carry me through eternity In the shelter of your arms.

And though I know its just a dream, A dream that soon must end, The arms I feel, I know are real And Im happy, once again.

And if I die while I am asleep, I pray my dreams hell let me keep, And carry me through eternity In the shelter of your arms
