

Without Face, Screaming Heartbeat

crying, shouting
screaming, yelling
you must feel
sights of vanished spirits don't stop here my fellow make yourself at home

screaming heartbeat in the silence something moving in the darkness as if you were being watched your hand is on the handle, step across the threshold come step one step higher meet the last empire

softly, cracky planks softly cracky steps dusty footprints before you silent darkness behind you

there's only space around you now you bear something new you think they're speaking to you but only the old floor crackles under your soles screaming heartbeat...

crying, shouting,
don't step here my fellow

now look at here!
you'll see the death
you'll see over the door the faces in the wall I'll give eternity help me to build our city.
