Wolverine, A Fairytale

And from the shadows came a song Dedicated to the stars Dancing through the night in white The fairies, wide awake tonight

The autumnwind carried their song in the night And over the hills they danced, surrounded by light Hidden through the years protected by our fairytales This beautiful scenery was no longer fantasy

The chilling wind spoke through the trees I smiled and fell down to my knees Feelings I had never known Feelings I had never shown

And there I was watching... in tears A mind beside my own, to me unknown And as I felt something I'd never felt before I cried... hoping for more

Like a cool winterbreeze I felt something strange Felt like I had become one of them

I closed my eyes and heard the melody, oh so beautiful Like a leaf in the autumn wind, I rode the air

I saw a light shining so bright I felt my heart turn to stone

It seemed like years, I screamed in fear and in the rain, I screamed in pain

And from the shadows came a song Dedicated to the stars Dancing through the night in white I will be awake tonight
