

Wynn Stewart, Searching For Another You

I have searched a sea of faces but not one of them replaces
That old feeling everytime I looked at you
Oh how well I can remember your love so sweet and tender
And that's why I'm searching for another you

But no one seems to ease this longing there's no feeling of belonging
Oh how lonely is this heart you've broke in two
I only live for your returning with each tear that falls I'm learning
That I'll never ever find another you
( fiddle - steel )
No one seems to ease this longing...