Year Of The Rabbit, Hunted

I know you're hunting for me now I know my light is on your screen You think I'm under your control My mind, a product of your schemes

And when your metal seeker shines, I will avoid its hungry beam And make a silent slow escape Away into the night, and

All will be forgotten now All will fade away All will change into a dream that no one ever dreamed

I know you're hunting for me now I know my code is in your sights Your hand, upon the switch of fate Taking the energy of life

No one will know, Always alone No one will know, Always alone, and

All will be forgotten now All will fade away All will change into a dream that no one ever dreamed

All will be forgotten now All will fade away All will change into a dream that no one ever dreamed