

Yearning, Autumn Funeral

Now all my days are dark, my only light is gone
The joy has faded from my eyes
Frozen up I am, watching the autumn rain
I just hope to pass away

Pale is your face as you lie in the casket
And I cry for you

And they lay you down to the earths eternal sleep
And my tears merge into autumn rain and fade away

I walk here alone, wishing you were beside me
No! Go away! I must be losing my mind
I see you coming from the shades of the graves
Your look, filled with lust
My god, let this be a dream

Pale is your face as you lie in the casket
And I cry for you

And they lay you down to the earths eternal sleep
And my tears merge into autumn rain and fade away