

Yes, Walls

(Rabin, Hodgson, Anderson)

Don't you know it's my way out
To be on my own.
When I feel like crying out
I do it best alone.
Can you give me love and
Protection to shield my heart.
All the fear I feel from doubt
Is tearing me apart.

I wanna love, I wanna give,
I want to find another way to live.
Another shout, another cry,
And the walls come tumbling down.

Don't you know there's no way out;
Your pain's your own,
And the more we scream and shout
The more we feel alone.
I can feel my anger rising-
Am I to blame?
And I'm not gonna keep it inside me.
Do you feel the same?

I wanna love, I wanna give,
I want to find another way to live.
Another shout, another cry,
And the walls come tumbling down.
And I'm calling you.
