

Yolanda Adams, Someone Watching Over You

Say that your not afraid your just fine got it all figured out this time all of the plans you made will work out deep inside you have your doubts but your clinging to your pride and you trust you'll know your free to let it go cause even when it rains outside there is light even when you cry all night you're alright

even when you loose your way you'll get through cause there is someone watching over you say you've been hurt before your afraid that you'll never love again and why should you take a chance just to fall but you'd rather build a wall than believe that you are loved open up your heart someone needs you as you are

I've been there at times I get scared
it's true
but I hold on to that I cant see something inside of me and that's what give me strength to believe
