

You're Pretty, Worst Of Me

I find I can hardly sit still with all that's going on inside of me these feelings I've had about you have been confirmed this isn't happening

I think about all times I was so blind and let you run to her never saying one damn word now I'm letting it out I'm getting it out

Here I go now getting crazy you think you have seen the worst of me
This is probably all my fault cause I can be so goddamn trusting Is it too much to ask for you to show me a little honesty you can't even imagine all the hurt you've caused inside of me but hurt can quickly change and it's building up and coming out as rage

Here I go again now getting crazy you think you have seen the worst of me

Here you go again now lying to me I think you should make a run for it

I think its kind of cute the way you thought I'd sit and take this but hell hath no fury like mine and I don't think you could ever handle it

I have a couple question before you have to run for cover was she worth all this and do you even really love

Here I go again now getting crazy you think you have seen the worst of me

Here you go again now lying to me I think you should make a run for it

What did you think that I would not figure out

Do you think that this is what I am about

Hiding, Cowering I've done that for way too long

Now I am the one to stand up and be strong

Chorus
