

Yuri Chika, Treasure The World

When I step out the door
I am met by the sun
And I look to a sky
That protects everyone
Then I call out my joy
To be borne by the wind
Sharing love for this world that we're in
When the sun fades away
And a stillness descends
I gaze up to the stars
In a night without end
Then I call out my joy
To be borne by the wind
Sharing love for this world that we're in
And my love flies over fields
Over valleys bearing grain
Over rivers that travel through our lands
Through the roaring of the sea
Through the falling of the rain
I call out to all my friends
Let us sing out our joy
To be heard everywhere
Let us share all our dreams
Let us watch them with care
Let us live everyday
And together let us say
We will treasure the world that we're in