

100th And May, Thanks For A Good Time

Im sorry for the day
That I saw your face
I tried to help myself, but I couldnt look away
Im sorry for the words
That I said to you
I couldnt help but tell you every word was true
I guess I got caught up
In what I thought could be
The greatest part of life, the greatest part of me
I wonder if you knew
What I was thinkin when
You said to me that night Thanks for a good time
I guess I was just fooling myself
Cause how could I ever be with you
I guess my heart will rest here in last place
Its something Ive come used to
She cant help but feel
The lies that shes been told
Hell just run away, and youll grow only cold
I swear to you that I
Will never leave your side
Ill always stand up tall
