

13 Engines, What if we don't get what we want

We were sitting at the head of a car And her lips were dry and parched And we turned to each other