

36 Crazyfists, Midnight Swim

It's a midnight swim, where it is late and the air is all clear.
And I remember that evening, you on the floor, I was attached to the ceiling.
Look behind, that glass in your mouth, it's what I am due for.
The sun will set tonight on all the lonely dreamers, only to rise again so we can start it over.
And you were right when you whispered in my ear and it all became so clear.
It's gonna be alright, everything will be alright even if the city ignites.
Now to get back to the room where there's windows as large as the city below.
Bring me down to the safe.
Unlock all of me, until then...
We'll start it again so we can start it over.
The sun will set tonight