

A-Camp, I Can Buy You

A-Camp
A-Camp
I Can Buy You
A life of sanity and dignity
You know it takes two
And what's the use in being a millionaire
If i can't have you

I wanna buy you a home
I'll pay your friends
If you're feeling alone
The pain of losing a guy like you
Is a bigger cost
Than paying your dues

I can buy you, oh yeah, oh yeah
But i can't make you do what you don't
And i can hire you, oh yeah, oh yeah
But i can't make you love me
I can't make you

You say i'd never go for a little
And i always need more
And you're a thousand dollar playboy
That i just can't afford

But i guess you got me, oh, oh
You got me hanging around
For too long
I don't wanna stop it, oh no, oh no
I bet your life that it's
With me you belong

And i can buy you, oh yeah, oh yeah
But i can't make you do what you don't
And i can hire you, oh yeah, oh yeah
But i can't make you love me
I can't make you care

So if i can't make you love me
If i can't make you care
What price can take me there
In this world
Somebody told me cash is king

I didn't mean to force you, oh no
But i bet a fortune it's
With me you belong

And i can buy you, oh yeah, oh yeah
And i can hire you, oh yeah, oh yeah
But i can't make you love me
I can't make you care

I can't take you there
Anymore
