A Change Of Pace, Home Is Where The Heart Is

say something anything right now you know im choking on how bad it hurts to say goodbye trust in the words i say to you its killing me to see you desperate believe in what you want just tell me how long it takes until im in the right place here we go again im happier without this left behind but its all over now im ready to go im ready to go ready to find a way some how im ready to go im ready to go ready to leave it all say something anything right now i know youre choking on how bad it hurts to let us go cry yourself asleep again tonight write a note sent with youre love from everyone everyone just tell me how long it takes until im in the right place here we go again im happier without this left behind but its all over now im ready to go im ready to go ready to find a way some how im ready to go im ready to go ready to leave it all behind you build me up can't break me down ill find a way to leave this town and nothing good youll ever say will stay with me please stay with me [x2] stay with me here we go again im happier without this left behind but its all over now im ready to go im ready to go ready to find a way some how im ready to go im ready to go ready to leave it all behind all behind