

A Day at the Fair, Shoebox Greeting

the ghost in the picture, the smile on the face, the absence of words, are taking the place of what's do you remember the names as forgotten or fading away

I've tried holding your words in my heart and under my pillow to dream you will not be a stranger be the ghost in the picture is smiling and waving goodbye

the ghost in the picture, is smiling and waving goodbye

is this all we have now?

is this all we have now?