

A Girl Called Eddy, Tears All Over

Ride the subway home
Pretend that you're not home
When somebody calls you
But nobody calls you
And it's me who loves you still
And I always will
But there are tears all over town
Too many tears all over this town
There are tears all over town
Too many tears
Once there were trumpets in the air
And confetti in your hair
And I knew where I belonged
Now I'm singing you this song
And every star we felt that night
We reached for it all, you know we tried
But there are tears all over town
Too many tears all over this town
There are tears all over town
Too many tears
I'm scattered like newspapers all over the streets
I see your face in everyone I meet
I'm avoiding the corners, I'm avoiding your name
I know that I loved you but I loved you in vain
And this city's too small for two
My melancholy friend and you
And these tears all over town
Too many tears all over this town
Tears all over town
Too many tears all over this town
Too many tears
Too many tears
Too many tears
