

A Global Threat, False Patriot

you say you believe in peace and freedom but you'll never be free without a fight you say you believe in the government when all they do is take away our rights you've gotta fight for you beliefs we need to stand together to win this war you say you believe in the justice system but who is to say what is just or fair? you say you believe in the constitution when equal rights don't apply everywhere and i don't want to hear, i'm fucking lucky i live here cause half you people don't give a shit, about what's right or wrong so why should we care, if you don't think we belong?
when all they do is take away your rights you say you believe in the justice system.
but who is to say what is just and fair? you say you believe this country protects you but the people of the country they don't fuckn' care
