

A Life Once Lost, Overwhelming

now we are here we are closer to absolute control more than ever before my growing desire to conquer the world
increases over night this surge of poetic tyranny gushes through my body conduits feelings meet me face to face i stand up taller than you and watch my hands smother this world i want to leave millions hypnotized and gasping for their last breath i have been here once before by myself this is nothing new for me i am degraded and thrown aside realization steps away from its waltz with my mental shadows to present this uncoated truth