

A New Found Glory, Whiskey Rose

Yes, I got your address from a friend
It was a matter of life and death
Something I needed off my chest
So can we meet tonight
But I don't wanna fight
Don't wanna leave 'til we're alright
Remembering everything that was said
Remembering went right straight to my head
Then there's regret
That we don't have
But when it comes down to saying it
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
I sit and watch the clock on the wall
As it counts down the end of my life
It leaves a bad taste in my mouth
Like sending letters with no reply
But I don't wanna fight
Don't wanna bleed 'til we're alright
Remembering everything that was said
Remembering went right straight to my head
Then there's regret
That we don't have
And it's your voice
That I don't hear
And it's the life we could have had
But when it comes down to saying it
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
Know there's something missing
I am the culprit in all this
I deserve this blood
So be honest
I'm ready
To take back everything I said
It was all just in my head
It was all just in my head
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
No, you don't have the minute to spare
No, you don't think we need to repair
All those things that we are missing
'Cause you know there's something missing
Know there's something missing
