

Abeline, Clarity

Pulling me down, around
There's a splinter of light
Leaking through the darkness
And piercing through my eyes
Oh, break away, cause the thoughts of reason all become lost
In the end there's no use in trying to pick up the pieces.
There's no conversation!
There's no, thoughts of feeling remorse!
We all have made, made the mistake of saying,
Saying who we love.
To try to find out, find out who we are.
To try to believe, believe in something real.
To try to see through, see past all of the flaws.
To try to test our hearts, to see who we truly are.
The stars surround her eyes, and our clothes keep falling down
Oh how I wish I could get out of this lifestyle.
It's such a drug, feeling you from the inside out.
And I think I'm addicted.