

Abominant, The Dark Mystery

In the night the light burns away
Dissipating into shadows
In the black hearts that bleeds pure death
An empty shell remains
For the last rites of sorrow
Eyes reep of tears
A conquest full of questions
The answer lies in wake
A figure of black stands before me
Eyes of others watching me
For which I face is the unknown
A darker side of my own
And the screams of horrific voices
Fills o soul full of fear
Is this a dream or just reality
For no one can explain
A dark mystery
Forces beyond the unknown
Is it just imagination
A silhouette of night that speaks no words
Face to face
I see the nothing
A stone edged face that sheds a tear
For they enter my body and possessed my soul
I turn my face and look away
I close my eyes, I dwell in fear
As I look again the nothing is no more
Was it a dream or true reality
Till another night they return again
The endless shadows of evil
There's no god that can help me
For I am doomed within my own cell
The dark mystery
