Accidental Superhero, Lay Down Your Head

lay down your head it's not as bad as it seems to be come to my bed hand over all of your grief to me and scream so sweetly as you're losing all your ground and fall so neatly as it all comes crashing down feel it wash away save it for another day don't just let yourself fall feel it wash away don't give in 'til one more day nobody can tell you what's wrong now hold your breath whisper your secret dreams to me clutch it to your chest forget your fears and just let it be and fight so fiercely as you find your piece of mind and come so quickly as you leave it all behind

feel it wash away save it for another day don't just let yourself fall feel it wash away don't give in 'til one more day nobody can tell you what's wrong

feel it wash away save it for another day don't just let yourself fall feel it wash away don't give in 'til one more day nobody can tell you what's wrong