

ACIDMAN, Returning

nothing is found here in this place but the world is yet there for us floating away in finite time and we can never get there as we walk under the blazing sun we leave it behind on the way i heard some desperate noise again it may have been the sound of earth's rotation how long is it gonna take i heard a faint voice
how long is it gonna take
the man was singing "the world will end";

but there's the promise with the sun i have to accept everything the steady promise with the sun you have to accept everything the vibe is surrounding us, the beautiful sound is all over us and in the end, we will return again

nothing is found here in this place
but the world is yet there for us and i will become the universe shoot the vibe before i return there is a song when i depart there is a song when i arrive now is the time for us to go take in a deep breathe and realize

how long is it gonna take
i heard a faint voice
the man was singing "the world will end";

but there's the promise with the sun
i have to accept everything
the steady promise with the sun
you have to accept everything the vibes we shoot are the notes from the earth going around number of time and in the end, we will return again

but there's the promise with the sun i accept everything
how long is it gonna take
i heard a faint voice
how long is it gonna take
the man was singing "the world will end";

but there's the promise with the sun
i have to accept everything
the steady promise with the sun
you have to accept everything
the vibe is surrounding us, the beautiful sound is all over us
and in the end, we will return again

if you return, you'll find the way you have to accept everything