

Across The Border, Fight Your War

Two wars in one life
enough for the truth
aspiration for power
has stolen our youth
such is life, history
the poor have to pay
and soldiers to die
three words they want to say why don't you fight your own war why don't you loose your father your daughter and your son you don't listen to the people we prefer to live in peace we never want to die
to die for your ideas
so fight your war
fight your own war
fight your war
you appeal to our love
for our fatherland
to protect the ruling class with a gun in my hand
not a penny for your words I never fight for you before I'll kill myself or cut your head in two.