

Adele, Strangers by Nature

Taking flowers to the cemetery of my heart
For all of my lovers
In the present and in the dark
Every anniversary
I will pay respect and say I am sorry
For they never stood
Chances if they could
But no one knows what it's like to be us

I've never seen the sky this colour before
It's like I'm noticing everything a little bit more
Now that all the dust has settled
I rebut all my rebuttals
No one knows what it's like to be us

Strangers by nature
Strangers by nature

Will I ever get there?
I hope that someday I'll learn
To nurture what I've done
