

Adhesive, Prefab Life

Based on inheritance we subscribe to old traditions These traditions don't include compassion these traditions don't include equality Based on ignorance we cling on to old traditions these traditions suppress individuality these traditions suppress natural needs
I can't even explain how much I hate it
the way we're herded into our positions
I can't even explain how much I hate it
our lives are made up before we even live them Based on our own greed we refuse to see other options these options include compassion and equality these options include individuality
I can't even explain how much I hate it
the way we're herded into our positions
I can't even explain how much I hate it
our lives are made up before we even live them
